FINE STEELHEAD PLANT FOR SKAGIT RIVER THIS YEAR

The state game department has been busy the past week loading the Skagit River with young steelhead. Hank Moore, local game protector, stopped at the Herald office last Thursday with a load of the beautiful little fish, each husky and about six to 7 inches long. They weighed 11 to the pound and the aerated tank truck carried about 4,400 to a load.

Many thousand will go in the river this season to help reestablish the Skagit steelhead run.
