Funds for River Improvements at Utopia Approved

Final approval of the $15,000 emergency appropriation to take care of flood control on the Skagit river near Utopia, has now been secured, according to a letter to the Courier-Times from Congressman Henry M. Jackson. The money, secured through the Chief of Army Engineers in Washington, D. C., through the efforts of Jackson, will be used on the portion of the Skagit river that is seriously cutting into its bank in the vicinity of the Frank Neble farm.

The District U. S. Engineer at Seattle has been authorized to begin work as soon as practicable.
